

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a reproducing apparatus, a plurality of pictures of image data reproduced from a recording medium at a speed higher than a normal reproduction speed is stored in a memory, each of the plurality of pictures of image data stored in the memory is divided into a plurality of regions, and one picture of image data is formed by using the different divided regions of the plurality of pictures of image data.

10